

DC Council of Engineering and Architectural Societies Awards for
Engineer/Architect and Young Engineer/
Architect of the Year

Purpose

To honor members of the engineering and architecture professions for outstanding accomplishment in the fields of engineering, architecture, and affiliated technologies

Eligibility

Members of the engineering or architectural professions, or allied arts and sciences, in the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area

Current members of the DCCEAS Executive Committee and members of the Awards and Recognition Committee may not be candidates, nor may they nominate or endorse candidates.

Requirements

Nominees for the Engineer/Architect and Young Engineer/Architect of the Year awards must meet the following minimum qualifications for the awards:

- Nominees for the Engineer/Architect of the Year award must be at least 36 years old.
- Nominees for Young Engineer/Architect of the Year award must be less than 36 years old.

Entries on nomination forms must be legible. Nominees may be contacted to attest that the information tendered in the nomination is generally free from error and properly represents the nominee's performance, participation, leadership, and recognition.

Nomination of candidates for this award including related materials and endorsement letters must be received by December 14, 2018 by e-mail at awards@dceas.org . Either Microsoft Word (.doc) or Adobe Acrobat (.pdf) is recommended for all attachments to the e-mail. Alternatively, five hard copies of each nomination can be submitted to: Chairman, Awards Committee, DCCEAS, P.O. Box 18842, Washington DC 20036-8842. Candidates must be nominated by a DCCEAS member society. Self-nominations will not be considered.

A minimum of two endorsement letters are required to support each nomination package. Endorsement letters can be mailed to the aforementioned address or e-mailed. If e-mailed, they should be forwarded directly from the endorser's e-mail.

Basis for Judging

Selection will be based on the dedication, effort, quality, and — most importantly — on clearly successful accomplishment and achievement in advancing the technical and professional aims of the engineering and architectural professions.

Recipients for each award will be determined by the degree with which nominees satisfy award criteria. The nominee for each award having the highest evaluation will be judged the winner.

DCCEAS Award Description

Engineer/Architect and Young Engineer/Architect of the Year

Evaluation criteria in descending order of importance are as follows:

- Engineering /Architecture Achievements and Experience
- Academic Achievements/Continuing Competence
- Professional and Technical Society Activities
- Civic and Humanitarian Activities

Selection

Four awards — Engineer and Architect of the Year and Young Engineer and Young Architect of the Year — will be made based on results of the judging. The DCCEAS Awards and Recognition Committee will evaluate all nominations and will select one candidate, which in their judgment is best qualified for the award in each category.

Presentation

Presentation of the awards will be made at the DCCEAS Awards Banquet held during the National Engineers Week in February of each year.

Citation

Citations may be proposed by the nominating individual or organization. Citations will be reviewed and modified, as appropriate, by the DCCEAS Awards and Recognition Committee
